Probable Publication Dates of the issues in the First Series.

For the reasons given in the article it was not possible to determine the precise publication dates of the issues in the First Series of The Garfield Library. As a matter of record the tentative conclusions reached and tabulated below were arrived at on the basis of the following information:

- a. Nos. 1 to 16 were advertised in "The New Boys' Paper" for 7 March 1887 (Vol. I No. 24), with Nos. 17 to 20 being recorded as "in the Press." That advertisement was unchanged on 21 May 1887 (Vol. I No. 34).
- b. In the issue of "The New Boys' Paper" for 25 June 1887 (Vol. I No. 39)

Nos. 17 and 18 were advertised and Nos. 19 and 20 were recorded as being nearly ready. That advertisement was unchanged on 8 October 1887 (Vol. II No. 54)

- c. In the issue of "The New Boys' Paper" for 15 October 1887 (Vol. II No. 55) Nos. 1 to 20 were advertised, with others to follow. That advertisement was unchanged on 11 February 1888 (Vol. II No. 72).
- d. The title of the periodical was changed to "The British Boys' Paper" for the week ending 3 March 1888 (Vol. I No. 1). In Vol. I No. 3 (17 March 1888) there is an advertisement of works published by The Aldine Publishing Company (38 titles) without any series being specified. Twenty of the titles are Nos. 11 to 30 in The Garfield Library (First Series). That list was unchanged in the last advertisement seen, namely that in Vol. I No. 8 for the week ending 21 April 1888.
- e. From then onwards it was necessary to rely on the entry dates stamped upon the British Museum Registration copies. In that connection the following points had to be taken into account:
 - (i) the first 35 issues appear to have been deposited with the British Museum some time after their publication, seeing that Nos. 1 to 6, 8 to 13, 15 to 27 and 29 to 35 were all entered on 16 April 1890.
 - (ii) number 7 was entered on 29 April 1890.
 - (iii) numbers 14, 28, 36 and 77 are all missing from the British Museum shelves. They may have been temporarily out of print at the time; adjacent numbers were sent to the British Museum for registration, as required by British law, and then were never supplied through oversight; or, they may have been lost or mislaid at the British Museum.
 - (iv) number 81 bears no registration date stamp, probably through an oversight on the part of the British Museum cataloguers.

Nos. 1 to 16—published before 7 March 1887.

Nos. 17 & 18—published after 7 March and before 25 June 1887.

Nos. 19 & 20—published after 25 June and before 15 October 1887.

Nos. 21 to 30—published after 15 October 1887 and before 17 March 1888.

Nos. 31 & 32—published after 21 April 1888 and before 6 July 1889.

Nos. 33 to 35—published after 6 July 1889 and before 16 April 1890.

No. 36—published after 6 July 1889 and before 5 July 1890.

Nos. 37 to 40—published after 16 April 1890 and before 5 July 1890.

Nos. 41 to 52—published after 5 July 1890 and before 19 July 1891, with the available evidence pointing to publication of Nos. 41 to 48 in two batches of four titles each in 1890 and publication of Nos. 49 to 52 in 1891.

Nos. 53 to 64—published after 19 July 1891 and before 4 April 1892, again with the odds on issue in three four volume batches, namely Nos. 53 to 56 and Nos. 57 to 60 in 1891 and Nos. 61 to 64 in 1892.

Nos. 65 to 72—published after 4 April 1892 and before 12 January 1893, with the probability that publication was in two batches, Nos. 65 to 68 and Nos. 69 to 72, both before the end of 1892.

Nos. 73 to 80—published after 12 January 1893 and before 27 March 1894, with the likelihood that Nos. 73 to 76 were published in 1893 and Nos. 77 to 80 in 1894.

Nos. 81 to 88—published after 29 March 1894 and before 10 February 1896, with a possibility that Nos. 81 and 82 were issued in 1894, Nos. 83 and 84 in 1895 and Nos. 85 to 88 in 1896.

Nos. 89 to 92—published after 10 February 1896 and before 8 May 1897.

SOME OF THE BOYS' BOOKS FROM BRITAIN

By Jack R. Schorr

I don't profess to be an authority on British boys' books. I am a collector who is and has been captivated by their craftsmanship and beauty, and I can rarely pass up one when shopping.

Some of the finest examples of the bookbinding art, especially in juvenile books during the period of 1890 to 1920 came from Great Britain.

Many of them were given as presentation copies or award copies, for excellence in school achievements or Sunday school endeavors. The plates in the front of many of mine indicate this and the presence of these plates makes the book more valuable.

I have on my shelves quite a few by G. Manville Fenn, many I have read and enjoyed. One in particular is "Shoulder Arms," published by W. & R. Chambers of London and Edinburgh. Very heavy with beveled edges, in green, red and gold with illustrated cover. Then there is "Quicksilver" a boy with no skid to his wheel. Bound in dark blue and gold. And "Brown-smith's Boy" in black, red and gold, both published by Scribner and Welford. Heavy beveled edges, deluxe editions, beautifully done.

What looks really good is a shelf full of Henty, the master storyteller of Great Britain. All first editions in fine condition, published by Scribners or Blackie and Sons, Ltd., every spine different, with finest quality paper and outstanding artists of that day doing the illustrations.

T. Fisher Unwin of London published Robert Macdonald's "The Secret of the Sangasso" which is an eye catcher in red, white and gold, and an excellent story, by the way.

Speaking of attractive bindings, Seeley Service and Co., Ltd., of London did an outstanding job on "Jack Scarlett, Sandhurst Cadet," one of the most attractive British boys' books I have seen. I might add I would like very much to find the companion volume, "Jack Scarlett, Sub-Lieutenant."

George C. Harrap and Co. of London published some of James Willard Schultz's Indian stories, "Boy Trappers in the Rockies" and one or two of Sabin's, one being "Old Four Toes." These were reprints, but the water color illustrations made them very collectable and desirable. Henry Frowde, Hodder and Stoughton of London published most of Desmond Cook's school stories. "The School Across the Road," "Bending of the Twig," "The House Perfect," to name a few. Beautiful books in red and gold with a scene of school life on the cover.

Blackie published most of Andrew Home's splendid boys' stories of school life in beautiful bindings. I picked these up years ago and never found any since. I lack about four to complete the set.

Some of Harry Collingswoods were published by the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge. One in particular is "The Pirate Slaver." Very attractive and well bound with their imprint on the spine of S.P.C.K.

The Religious Tract Society publishes many of Talbot Barnes Reeds' works and made such titles as "Tom, Dick and Harry," "The Dog with a Bad Name," "Adventures of Three Guinea Watch." Well bound, with quality paper and being well illustrated made them attractive to the boy purchaser and in most cases to the purchaser buying them for a gift. The imprint on the spine was in large letters R.T.S.

I have several attractive books published by Jarrold and Sons, which they called their Empire Awards. They are by Robert Leighton. "Sergeant Silk, the Prairie Scout," splendid, in red, blue and gold. And a few more, "Bravest Boy in Camp" and "The Cleverest Chap in School" by Leighton, equally nice.

I came across a few by Captain Owen Vaughan, entitled "Lone Tree Lode," an excellent story of the old west, "Old Fireproof" and "A Scout's Story." These were published by Duckworth and Co. of London, in thick volumes and nicely illustrated and well illustrated boards and spine.

I think collecting British boys' books is a rewarding, colorful hobby and how beautiful they look on the shelves.

NEWS NOTE

Joseph M. Graham, founder of the Society of the Friends of Frank Merriwell died October 21, 1971. He was 60 years old and editor of the house organ of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. In 1956 the National Broadcasting Company aired a 90-minute Frank Merriwell show outlining Frank's concept of fair play. Mr. Graham provided much of the material for the show. A DIME NOVEL COLLECTOR'S BOOK SHELF

THE UNEMBARRASSED MUSE, The Popular Arts in America, by Russell Nye. The Dial Press, 750 Third Ave., New York 10017. $12.50. An excellent popular history of the arts in America with chapters devoted to popular fiction and poetry, the theater, music, radio, movies, and TV. A chapter is devoted to dime novels and except for a few technical errors (Beaules Frontier Series is mentioned as having been published in 1875, should have been 1908) is very good. There are many good illustrations.

FRANK MERRIWELL'S SCHOOL-DAYS, by Burt L. Standish, Smith Street Publications, 20 DuPont Street, Plainview, N. Y. 11803. Three editions, Commemorative with blue cloth covers at $5.00, white board covers at $3.95 and paper back at .95. These are reprints of the Merriwell Series and are a must for all Merriwell fans. The price is considered high, but is prob-
